

INTERNATIONAL HOUSE

The International House was established in the fall of 1947. Numerous influential faculty members and students had instigated the idea prior to its official development. Its purpose is to provide living accommodations for students of all races and creeds, in an effort to further international and inter-racial cooperation.

The house was formally introduced to the University at an open house in December. Informal socials were held during the year which provided educational advancement as well as pleasure and recreation.

The Standards committee elected for the year included Betsey Lawrence, president; Wanda Parsons, secretary; Cyrena Goldman, social chairman; Harriet Nakamoto, treasurer; Leontine Carroll, literary chairman; and Alpha Spikner, scholarship chairman.

Bottom Row: A. Spikner, M. Nakamoto, B. Lawrence, J. Sawnders, C. Goldman, W. Parsons.
